VIII—STAFFS:

Each Battalion, Regiment, Division Artillery and the 104th Division have a staff. The duties of staff officers are to provide the commander with basic information and technical advice by which he may arrive at a decision, to develop the basic decision, to prepare adequate plans, translate the plans into orders and insure the compliance of orders by continual inspection.

The Division General Staff comprises the Chief of Staff, who coordinates all actions and plans of the other staff members. The G-1 handles all problems relative to personnel, prisoners of war, casualties, replacements, pay, furloughs and promotions.

The G-2 supervises intelligence training in the Division, keeps the Commanding General apprised of the strength, location, capabilities and probable action of the enemy, and disseminates all information concerning the enemy to the units of the Division.

The G-3 is responsible for training the entire Division, and in combat carries out the policies and commands of the Commanding General by prepara- tactical plans, field orders, and coordinating the details of the operations.

The G-4 is responsible for supplying the Division with food, clothing, ammunition and transportation.

In the Battalion, Regimental and Division Artillery Headquarters, the S-1, S-2, S-3 and S-4 have corresponding duties within their respective units.

The Division Special Staff gives technical advice to the Commanding General and the General Staff. The Artillery, Engineer, Signal, Quartermaster and Ordnance representatives have dual responsibilities of command and staff work. The Special Staff is comprised of the Commanding General of the Division Artillery; Engineer, Surgeon and Ordnance Officer; Quartermaster, Adjutant General and Chemical Warfare Officer; Inspector General, Judge Advocate, Finance Officer, Chaplain, Provost Marshal and Headquarters Commandant.
