

SALLY'S SALLIES SUGGEST
NEW SHOULDER PATCH
FOR 30TH DIV.

WITH 30TH DIV.-- The Joes of the 30th Div. have thrown one of the "Sally's" sallies right back in the Nazi propaganda gal's face.

Sally had been saying in her nightly English language broadcasts that the 30th boys were "F.D.R.'s S.S. troops." The boys rather fancied the idea. They pointed out they really were Elite Troops, a chosen few, and top-notch fighters. Maj. E.L. Glaser, of Palm Beach, Fla., decided to adopt the designation and make a new division patch to go with it.

The result was a design, now under consideration at division headquarters, which combines the O and H of the 30th's Old Hickory with the two flashes of lightning which comprise the S.S. trooper's insignia and to top it off, the President's well-known initials.
